

Inter-American Legal Affairs Committee &
International Dispute Resolution Committee of the International Law Section
Presents an Off the Record Luncheon

The surge of investment disputes in Latin America: a roundtable

Disputes between investors and Latin American States have grown dramatically in the recent past. Some Latin American States have reacted against that growth by signing out from ICSID, limiting the scope of disputes subject to it or renegotiating some treaties. Criticism to the system of international investment disputes have also been expressed by some investors by reasons of costs, length and inconsistency. Our panel of experts will discuss these issues in a roundtable format.
